PROJECT DESCRIPTION:

This $10,000,000 facility includes a 500 seat performing arts centre, combined with a 3,200 square foot museum and interactive zone highlighting the hockey career of Bobby Orr.

James Campbell, the artistic director for the Festival of Sound reported the following regarding the Centre:

"When the Festival Winds played the first notes in the Charles W. Stockey Festival Performance Hall in June 2003, we knew that we had a gem on our hands. Although we always expected that the acoustics would be good and we hoped that they would be excellent, what we heard went far beyond our hopes and dreams."
